

Food for Fines

Wednesday, April 1 - Sunday, May 17, 2009

*Have an overdue library book? A fine you still need to pay?
Why not make a donation of food to the library and erase that overdue fine while helping a family in need!*

Here's how it works:

- In honor of the Easter season, students who return their overdue books to either the Queens or Staten Island Circulation Desks between April 1 – May 17, 2009 with donations of non-perishable food items will have their fines waived (see Suggested Food Items below).
- One food item will erase one overdue fine regardless of the fine amount (multiple fines will be waived from lowest to highest amount).
- Pre-existing overdue fines are also eligible.
- Fines and fees resulting from lost or damaged library materials are NOT eligible for the Food for Fines program.
- All food collected will go to St. Raphael Food Pantry and Our Saviour Lutheran Food Pantry (Queens) and Project Hospitality (Staten Island).

Suggested food items:

cereals, canned soup, instant potatoes, Jell-O, canned juice, canned vegetables, evaporated milk, canned fruit, peanut butter, canned meat, canned fish, rice, pasta, canned spaghetti sauce, stuffing mix, etc. No items past the expiration date or dented cans will be accepted.

Donations will also be accepted from anyone in the campus community wishing to contribute.
